

NEXT MEETING TO BE SOCIAL AFFAIR

Nominating Committee of Chamber of Commerce Plans Banquet on September 2.

NO CHARGE TO THE MEMBERS

Many Important Civic Matters Discussed at Regular Meeting Tuesday Night.

At the regular meeting of the chamber of commerce which was held at the city building Tuesday night, the nominating committee was authorized to arrange a banquet in connection with the annual meeting to be conducted September 2. At that time the officers for the coming year will be elected. The plans for the annual election were left to the nominating committee, composed of nine members. The details of the banquet and election will be arranged within a short time and it is expected that every member will participate. Permission for the nominating committee to proceed with its recommendations was granted following a motion by Frank Platter, a member of the committee.

The meeting Tuesday night was full of interest as many live topics were presented for discussion.

Claude Carter, chairman of the post lighting committee, reported that the plans for the system were progressing satisfactorily and that he felt confident that it would be installed in a short time. A miniature model of the proposed type of post to be used here has been received and a sample post will be exhibited soon. Mr. Carter said that engineers from the best known electrical houses in the country were working on the proposed local system and that it would be installed with the view of meeting future needs as well as the present demands. He said that the committee had conferred with a number of property owners in the business district relative to the plan to anchor the electric trolley guy wires to the buildings so that the poles could be removed and with one exception each property owner had given his consent. The one who objected, Mr. Carter said, did not fully understand the plans and he felt sure that that party would give his

NO CLEW REPORTED AS TO ESCAPED CONVICTS

Four Men Who Escaped From the County Jail Covered All Trails Behind Them.

Harry Burrell, William C. Allen, Frank F. Cook and N. C. Price, the four paroled convicts who escaped from the county jail early Monday morning are still at large and no clews as to their whereabouts have been reported to Sheriff Harvey L. McCord. The men, it is thought, made their getaway in an automobile which was furnished by accomplices.

Search is being continued for the men but the authorities have little hope of rearresting them in the near future. They will likely stay away from this vicinity for some time. That at least two of the men were members of a gang that is not entirely broken up is the firm conviction of some who have given attention to the case.

DRAINAGE SURVEY IS RECOMMENDED

Chamber of Commerce Asks City Council to Give Attention to Sewerage Problem.

PETITIONS NOW PENDING

Work Already Proposed Would Entail Cost Estimated at $29,000—Relief is Needed.

Steps looking towards the construction of a sewerage system in Seymour that would be scientifically correct and would meet the present and future requirements of the city, were taken by the chamber of commerce Tuesday night. The matter was presented by Albert H. Ahlbrand, who, after a brief explanation, offered resolutions asking the city council to arrange for a commission or engineer to draw up permanent sewerage plans, so that any money now expended for relief would bring permanent results. The resolutions were approved.

Mr. Ahlbrand stated that the council has several drainage projects under consideration which will entail an estimated expense of $29,000 to the city. He thought that this money could be used in the construction of a permanent system and the relief would be far more reaching than the drainage of surface water alone.

He said that he understood that a project has been launched in the First ward for a sewerage system to carry away surface water which would

HIGHER SHOE PRICES CANNOT BE JUSTIFIED

Federal Trade Commission Says Packers are Back Soaring Leather Costs.

By United Press.
Washington, August 6.—Higher prices of shoes "cannot be justified by underlying economic conditions," the federal trade commission declared today, in a report to congress. The report is based on investigation begun more than a year ago. It traces part of the increased cost of shoes back to the Chicago packers who, it declares, control the hide market. Large profits also made by tanners, shoe manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, according to the report, all of whom boosted prices and "made unprecedented profits. Some retail shoe dealers made as much as fifty per cent. profits, the report states. Drastic enforcement of the laws against monopolistic control, is recommended in the report as a remedy.

REVIEWS PROGRAM OF STATE MEETING

C. B. Davis, Chamber of Commerce Secretary, Files Report on Convention at Winona.

CIVIC PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Believes Many Ideas Advanced at Session are Applicable to Situation in Seymour.

Clark B. Davis, secretary of the chamber of commerce, made a preliminary report at the regular meeting last night relative to the recent convention of commercial secretaries which was held at Winona. Mr. Davis was the representative from the local Chamber and left the city with instructions to "get some ideas for the advancement of Seymour." That he returned with scores of suggestions was indicated by his report which he explained was not complete. He said he would take up other matters from time to time during the year and felt certain that some of the ideas advanced at the meeting were valuable here.

"Some of the ideas and suggestions advanced at the school at Winona are not applicable to this city," said Mr. Davis, "while others, I believe, can be used to an advantage in Seymour." He reviewed the program in a general way and will take up the discussions in a detailed manner later. Addresses by representatives from the State Chamber of Commerce, United States Chamber of Commerce and commercial organizations in several states were given at the Winona convention. The Indiana secretaries also told of their experiences.

Among the problems discussed which were referred to by Mr. Davis was the housing project. He said that men who have had broad experience in erecting houses in various

PUBLIC AFFECTED BY FREIGHT RATES

E. L. Quarles Declares Consumers Pay Discriminatory Transportation Charges.

EVERY VICINITY INTERESTED

Difference in Schedules Against Indiana Virtually Amounts to An Additional Tax.

That freight rates are of direct interest to every individual and that discriminatory transportation charges in favor of Illinois and against Indiana virtually amount to a tax to Hoosier citizens, was emphasized by Edwin L. Quarles, state representative of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce, who addressed the Seymour Chamber of Commerce last night. Mr. Quarles is making a tour of a group of Indiana counties to explain why the state public service commission and the state chamber of commerce are waging the fight for a readjustment of freight rates.

He explained that many people were of the opinion that freight rates were of interest only to jobbers, manufacturers and retailers and that it was their problem to fight rather than for the consumer. He emphasized that every charge for transportation is ultimately paid by the consumer and that the cost is a factor in determining the retail cost. For this reason every individual is directly interested and if the readjustment of rates in Indiana is made the public and not the shippers and manufacturers will profit.

Many local people have already given some attention to the recent case presented by the Indiana commission before the interstate commerce commission in Chicago, but Mr. Quarles presented some points that are of much interest and which are not generally known. He said that the Chicago industrial interests

SENATE COMMITTEE QUIZZES LANSING

Secretary Lansing Says General Bliss Writes Wilson About Shantung Question.

CONTENTS NOT REVEALED

Says League of Nation Covenant That Was Adopted is Superior to American Plan.

By United Press
Washington, August 6.—The clause in the peace treaty by which Japan was given German rights in the Shantung failed to agree with the advice of the American delegations to President Wilson, Secretary Lansing told the senate foreign relations commission today. General Bliss in the name of the delegates wrote a letter to the president a week before the Shantung question was settled, Lansing said. Lansing denied the letter was a protest since it was written about a week before the peace conference announced its decision.

"Do you recall the contents of the letter?" Borah asked.

"I shouldn't want to; it was a letter from General Bliss to the president," Lansing answered.

"It is available to the committee?" asked Borah.

"Not from the state department," Lansing said. "It is a private communication," he added.

Lansing appeared before the committee for the first time since his return from Paris and was questioned regarding many phases of the peace conference. He was questioned closely about China and Japan and about the various plans for a league of nations.

The plan finally adopted for the league of nations covenant is far superior to the so-called American plan, Secretary Lansing declared today before the committee.

Senator Lodge began questioning Lansing by asking where the committee can get a copy of the American plan of the league. Lansing said he did not know, and the state department has no copy. He said none was ever laid before the peace conference.

INDUSTRIAL INDEPENDENCE IS LABOR OBJECTIVE

Warren Stone, Testifies Before The House Interstate Commerce Committee.

By United Press

Washington, August 6.—Declaring that labor's plan for handling the railroad situation "raises the banner of Democracy in control of industry," Warren Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, today told the house interstate commerce committee "that the American political democracy is dominated by an industrial autocracy."

"The workers demand economic independence as well as political freedom. The only way this can be obtained is by giving the workers a share in management of industry. Industrial problems and the cost of living will never be solved as long as consumers must pay extortionate profits on their earnings in buying the necessities of life."

The Sims resolution embodying the plan for government ownership and joint ownership of railroads is the first step towards industrial freedom, he said. "America was established through resolution as the home of political freedom," said Stone to the committee. "We now demand that it become the home of industrial freedom."

WILSON BEGINS WORK ON MESSAGE

President Preparing to Start Battle to Beat Down The Cost of Living.

NEW LAWS TO BE DEMANDED

One Recommendation to Call for Regulation of Foodstuffs in Cold Storage.

By United Press
Washington, August 6.—President Wilson today began work on the message he is to read to congress within a few days outlining a program to reduce the cost of living.

President Wilson plans to address congress next Friday on the high cost of living situation, according to unofficial information at the white house today.

The message, it was understood, will ask for new laws, better to enable the government to war on food profiteers, hoarders and others who are directly and wilfully contributing to high prices.

One of the president's recommendations for new legislation is expected to deal with some form of regulation of cold storage companies. This would prevent holding of food in storage for high prices. Regulation government governing transportation of food will also be touched upon by the president, it was learned. A proposal to reduce the amount of paper money in circulation is not expected to get much attention in the president's message.

The president is known to have before him a strong recommendation for licensing corporations in interstate business to prevent them engaging in businesses closely allied to their own.

Cabinet members who studied a proposal to revive the food administration failed to reach an agreement on this point. Although the administration may not be revived, its machinery will be used to the fullest in an effort to prevent food hoarding and price boosting.

The recommendations which Wilson has on his desk while he is drafting his message was submitted to him late yesterday by Attorney General Palmer. They were drawn up by a committee of eleven cabinet members and other high government officials, after consultation with economic experts and after studying a report submitted by Federal Trade Commissioner Colver, Rail Director Hines and Assistant Treasury Secretary Leffingwell, who surveyed the whole food situation.

Palmer also told the president that all the machinery of the department of justice had already been set in motion to stop food hoarding and profiteering and indicated he intended to make examples of some of the worst offenders.

Julius H. Barnes, head of the United States grain corporation, has taken steps to bring about an immediate reduction in food prices by forcing down the price of flour. Barnes announced he would sell standard export flour everywhere in the United States at $10 a barrel, which is $1 a barrel lower than any price prevalent during the last four months.

The guaranteed wheat price to farmers, $2.26 a bushel will be maintained, Barnes stated.

THE DRAINAGE PROBLEM.

If the Seymour Chamber of Commerce can bring about an improvement in the local sewerage system, finding each year that delay only adds expense.

The same sort of a proposal is now before the chamber of commerce and is to be presented to the present council. A heavy expense will result if a modern and adequate sewerage system is constructed. The cost will run into the thousands of dollars and the citizens must decide whether they believe this expense will be greater than the growth and expansion of the city will be worth.

A big problem has been presented. Undoubtedly much will be said about it when the plan is offered in detail and the public is given a fairly accurate idea of the cost.

CASE IS SET FOR HEARING NEXT FRIDAY

Judge of the Jennings Circuit Court Will Decide Whether or not to Recount Votes.

Friday has been set by Judge J. H. Carney, of the Jennings county circuit court to hear the attorneys for the removalists and anti-removalists and decide whether or not a recount should be granted. The anti-removalists recently filed an application asking the court to order a recount.

It will be remembered that the removalists won the Jennings county court house fight according to the count in the election held in that county several weeks ago. It is said that the anti-removalists are inclined to believe that some unlawful methods were used by the faction wanting the courthouse moved to North Vernon.

Attorneys for both sides are preparing a hard fight and the outcome of the hearing Friday will be watched with much interest. The Vernon faction feels that if the recount is granted developments will be discovered that will overthrow the election and cause the courthouse to be retained at Vernon for a time at least.

Judge John M. Lewis, of this city, has been employed to represent the Vernon people. He spent Tuesday at Vernon where he appeared for his clients in the injunction suit filed against the county auditor to restrain him from proclaiming the removal of the court house to North Vernon as shown on the face of the returns in the special election recently held in that county.

A. B. (Birch) Shotts Receives Appointment at Alhambra, California—Formerly in Barber Business

James E. Hamer has received a copy of the Alhambra Federated News printed at Alhambra, Cal., containing an article concerning the appointment of A. B. (Birch) Shotts, a former resident of this city, as chief of police in that city. Mr. Shotts is well-known here having been engaged in the barber business for a number of years before going to California.

The Alhambra Federated News says:

"A. B. Shotts was appointed chief of police of Alhambra by the city commission Monday night and Tuesday morning took charge of the office which has been temporarily and ably filled by Fred Stone since the resignation of Ben Parker in May. Mr. Shotts has been connected with the local police department for the past two and a half years and his faithful and intelligent services warranted the commissioners in appointing him head of the local department. Already he has made some valuable changes in the office and expects to do some more important reorganizing as soon as possible."

HOW OTHER NATIONS HANDLE FOOD SITUATION

Great Britain Spends $250,000,000 Annually to Keep Down The Price of Bread.

By United Press

A world wide resume of the food situation collected by cable by the United Press today, showed the following:

Great Britain—The government is spending $250,000,000 a year to keep the price of bread down and fixes the prices of meat and sugar.

France—France's food problem is one of quantity rather than price, and the government is employing every means to import sufficient supplies. The government fixes the maximum prices.

Canada—A commission has been created to handle this year's grain crop.

Australia—Australia has a vast surplus of food and the government has difficulty in keeping prices high enough to reward reduction.

Lower Milk Bills And Better Milk—the Finest in America

Van Camp's Milk brings lower milk bills.

It saves the waste of guessing on your milk wants in advance.

Here the cow is in the pantry. Small cans and large cans are at your call. Open what you need.

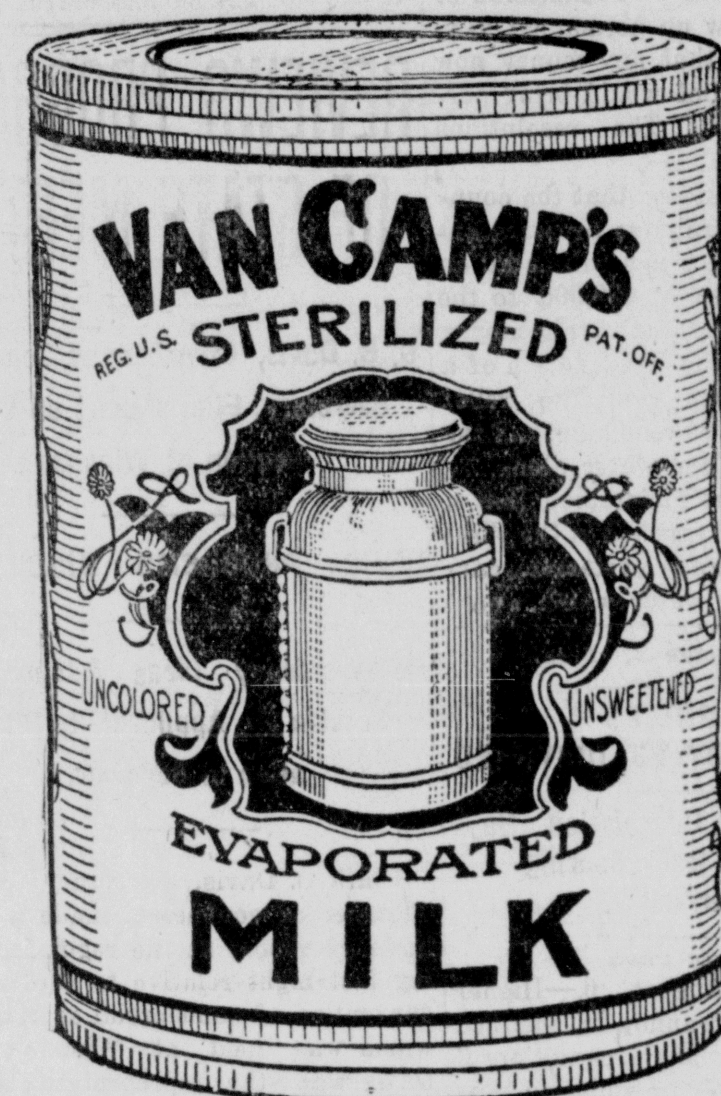

No need to guess the day's wants in advance. There is never a shortage, never a waste.

Double-Rich Milk

Van Camp's is whole milk from high-bred cows, with over half of the water evaporated.

It is twice as rich in butter fat and solids as the milk when it comes from the cow. Nothing is subtracted save the water.

It is as thick as thick cream. You can even dilute it for coffee or ice cream. Dilute it one-half and you have a very rich milk. Dilute it still further for cooking.

"The Cow in the Pantry"

Nothing Changed

We take this rich milk, fresh from the cow, and place it in a vacuum. There, by low heat, we evaporate most of the water, and that's all.

After sealing the milk in tin cans it is sterilized. That is the only change from fresh milk, and that is essential. Safety requires a germ-free milk—a pasteurized milk—whether you get it in bottles or cans.

For coffee or cereals Van Camp's is a cream. For cooking, when greatly diluted, it is still rich in butter fat.

A Guarded Milk

Van Camp's Milk comes from sanitary dairies, from inspected cows.

We have seven model condenseries, in the heart of great dairying districts. The milk is evaporated right after milking.

The Van Camp experts have spent twenty years to produce the finest milk in America. You will know that it is when you taste it.

Whatever milk you are using—bottled or evaporated—compare Van Camp's Milk with it. Here is the very utmost in rich, hygienic milk.

cost $9,000. Similar projects are proposed in the Third and Fifth wards, he said, and another movement is under way to construct a drainage canal to empty into the Honan ditch east of the city which would cost $30,000. The present plan provides that one-third of this amount shall be paid by the city as benefits.

Mr. Ahlbrand explained that the present sewer to the river is congested and there is a question if the channel is large enough to drain the additional surface water that would be thrown into it by the proposed projects. He recommended in his resolutions that the city council employ a commission or engineer to draw up permanent sewerage plans which would provide for another sewer to White River so that sanitary as well as surface sewerage could be furnished all parts of the city. The resolutions also recommend that the proposed drainage projects be deferred until such time as they can be a part of the general plan which will bring permanent relief to all sections of the city. He pointed out that the city cannot grow as it should until additional sewerage service is provided and expressed the belief that with the proposed projects pending this is the time to take up the matter. The resolutions were adopted and the officers of the Chamber were instructed to communicate with the city council.

The matter of an improved sewerage system here has been under discussion for a number of years. Many attempts to secure relief have been made, but the general belief prevails that the present outlet to the river is too small and that the most economical and practical method of solving the problem in the long run is to construct an additional sewer to the river and build all new drains in accordance with an approved plan.

permission. He said the committee is gratified with the co-operation that is manifested by everyone and the encouragement that has been offered. He asked the members of the chamber of commerce to boost and boost hard for the Great White Way so that the plans may materialize.

Clark B. Davis, chairman of the water committee, stated that the committee had held a meeting but as he was out of the city he was not prepared to make a detailed report. Albert H. Ahlbrand, another member of the committee, was present, and he said that the committee recommended that the matter of new rates had been taken up informally with the representatives of the Seymour Water Company and he thought that a compromise could be effected before the franchise which expires January 1 would be automatically renewed. He recommended that the present committee be discharged and that a smaller committee be appointed to take up the matter with the company. His motion was approved and W. C. Young, president, appointed Mr. Ahlbrand, N. Kaufman and C. L. Kessler members of the committee. Mr. Kaufman said that he would accept the appointment with the understanding that all malice and prejudice be eliminated and that the committee take up the matter on a business like basis with the view of getting a satisfactory and equitable schedule of rates.

President Young reported for the roads committee. He explained that the committee recommended the improvement of the Stahl road as the commissioners of the county deemed advisable. Improvement of the West Second street road and the Dudleytown road was also approved. He explained that the commissioners did not award the contract on the Stahl road and that the Dudleytown road has already been awarded. Just as the commissioners were preparing to sign the contract for the West Second street road, he said, they were advised that the Seymour public was not united on the question. Later, he reported, E. P. Elsner, member of the committee, went to Indianapolis and conferred with the state highway commission and learned that it would assume the responsibility of maintaining and repairing the main market highways after April 1, next. The committee felt that inasmuch as the state would be required to repair the road until it is permanently improved with concrete, it would save the township considerable money by postponing the proposed concrete improvement. For this reason, he stated, the commissioners did not award the contract for this road.

The report of Adolph Steinwedel, treasurer, was read by Clark B. Davis, secretary, and was approved. The itemized report was recently published.

James Demas recommended the change of the names of some of the streets. He thought that the plan of naming the streets for historical characters and for surrounding towns was commendable. He also advocated the placing of signs designating the names of the streets at the corners. As a result of his suggestion the matter of placing street names at the corner and giving directions to tourists as to how to enter and leave the city was discussed. Mr. Kaufman moved that the secretary of the Jackson Motor Club be asked to bring the matter before that body. The question was referred to the Motor Club. Mr. Ahlbrand thought that signs such as "Welcome, Drive Slowly" and "Good cities addressed the convention and expressed the belief that building material would not be any cheaper during the next five years. They declared that even if there is a drop in material prices a city that is prospering and expanding cannot afford to wait for lower costs of materials as the people who are unable to find homes will locate elsewhere and the loss to the city is serious and might be permanent. Among the plans which have been used was one whereby a number of lots were offered for sale and a company of citizens would erect homes upon the payment of a small cost the balance to be paid as rent. In each case, Mr. Davis said, the houses were sold before they were erected.

Bye. Come Again," should be placed at the main street entrances to the city. This matter was also referred to the Motor Club.

A "sanction committee" was also recommended by the local secretary. Such a committee would pass on sales plan attempted in the city and the agents would be required to have the approval of the chamber of commerce secretary and the committee before they could canvass. Such a committee would be able to prevent the sale of worthless stocks to the people and save the residents considerable annoyance and a substantial loss of money.

Claude Carter expressed the belief that such a committee would be valuable in connection with the chamber of commerce work. He recalled that the old Merchants' Association had such a committee and that its work was of great value in preventing unknown persons from exploiting questionable projects among the people.

In many places book agents and others are required to secure permits and unless they can present them the housewives have a good excuse for refusing them a hearing, unless she so desires. L. C. Griffiths expressed the opinion that while the "sanction committee" could do effective work the matter ought to be studied carefully so that the public would thoroughly understand the purpose. Upon his recommendation the board of directors was instructed to work out a plan which it thinks practicable and feasible and present it at a future meeting for the consideration of the members.

In closing Mr. Davis stated that an individual cannot make the chamber of commerce a successful organization, but that every member would have to regard himself as an essential and necessary factor and all work and pull together for the advancement of the Chamber and the entire city. "Everyone who is interested in Seymour ought to be a member of the chamber of commerce," he said. "The secretary alone cannot make the organization a success. The officers or the board of directors unaided cannot bring success. That can only result when the membership gets solidly behind the officers, who are the representatives of the members, and co-operate with them whenever any undertaking is attempted."

Mr. Davis expressed the belief that there are many splendid things that can be done here for the benefit of the entire city and which should be taken over and supervised by the Chamber.

SOCIAL EVENTS

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. William Hannauer entertained Tuesday afternoon at her home on West Second street, the occasion being the eleventh birthday anniversary of her son, Milton. Mrs. Hannauer was assisted by Mrs. Morton Crabb. The afternoon was spent with games and refreshments were served.

The guests present were Marian and Helen Crabb, Elizabeth Smith, Pearl Banta, James Black, Arthur Kaufman, Louis Schaefer, Paul Crabb and Allen Hannauer.

SURPRISE SHOWER.

Miss Minnie Breitfield, whose marriage to Everett Ault, of this city, will take place August 20, was given a surprise miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening at her home, corner Chestnut and Brown streets, by the members of the Young Ladies' Society of the Lutheran church. About fifty members of the society attended. The evening was spent informally with singing and dancing and refreshments were served. Miss Breitfield received a large number of gifts.

LAWN PARTY.

Misses Alice Monroe and Mary Himmler entertained the following guests Tuesday evening at the home of the former on East Seventh street: Pauline Meranda, Josephine Cuddahee, Lavenia Tovey, Elizabeth Aufderheide, Laura Schulte, Ruby Garis, Stella Gossett, Martha Loertz, Selma Hoevener, Mae Nentrup, of Jonesville, and Louise Rau of Indianapolis. The rooms were decorated with cut flowers and the lawn with Japanese lanterns. Games and contests were the diversions of the evening and a delightful luncheon was served at the close.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cox celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary yesterday at their home, four miles south of Elizabethtown. They entertained at one o'clock dinner the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. John Cox, Leland Cox, Miss Achsa Cox, Miss Geraldine Cox, Miss Orpha Cox, Miss Lizzie Cox, Miss Dacia Catlan, of Terre Haute; Miss Lois Hall of Seymour, and Miss Anna Morris, of Seymour.

In the afternoon about fifty guests arrived unannounced. Mr. and Mrs. Cox were delightfully surprised. They received numerous china gifts. The afternoon was spent socially with games and music. Punch was served on the lawn.—Columbus Republican.

CLARK—SMITH.

Miss Bertha Clark and Louis Smith, son of Mrs. Mary Smith, Cortland, were married at 9:30 this morning in the clerk's office, Brownstown, by Rev. John Anderson, pastor of the Cortland Methodist church.

Mrs. Smith is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Cortland, and has been employed as an operator in the Cortland Telephone Exchange.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left this morning for Columbus where they will visit relatives until Sunday. After their return they will make their home in Cortland.

STANDARD BEARERS.

An interesting meeting of the Standard Bearers of the First Methodist church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Mabel McCoglin, West Sixth street. The meeting opened with the usual business meeting which was followed by a short program. During the evening refreshments of home-made ice cream and cake were served, the ice cream having been made by the society.

SLUMBER PARTY.

Miss Esther Prall entertained the members of the Inter-Se Club Tuesday night with a slumber party at her home on North Ewing street.

Those who attended were Esther Prall, Lillian Griffiths, Hazel Stanfield, Mary Louise Honan, Lucille Kessler, Omega Wheaton, Helen Clark and Alice Dixon.

TWELVE O'CLOCK DINNER.

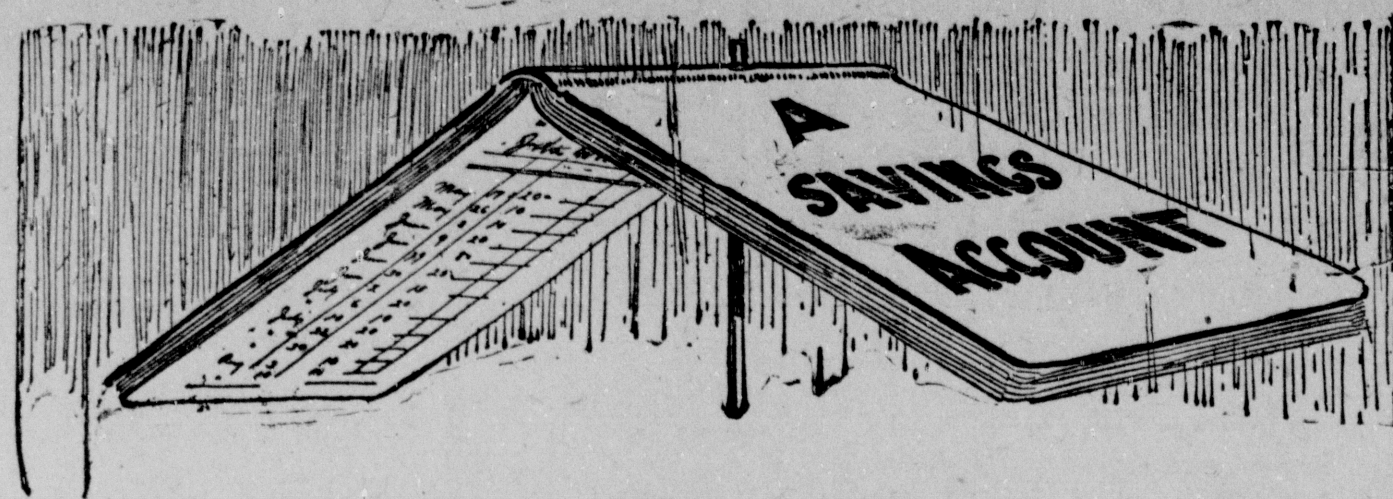

Mrs. D. DeMatteo entertained with a twelve o'clock dinner today at her home, corner Third street and Indianapolis avenue, in honor of L. C. Jackson, of Louisville, Ky., who is the guest of her son, John DeMatteo.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

A meeting of the Missionary Society of the Redington Christian church was held today at the home of Mrs. Milton Hazzard, Redington.

MEETING POSTPONED.

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the St. Paul church will not be held on Thursday afternoon.

SUGAR SHORTAGE IN ACUTE STAGE

Local Stocks are Practically Exhausted and Many People Are Without Supply.

LITTLE RELIEF IS IN SIGHT

Dealers Declare They Do Not Know When They Will Be Able to Again Fill Orders.

The available sugar supply which has been gradually decreasing daily for the last few weeks, was practically exhausted today and the shortage reached the acute stage. Few, if any local dealers, had a supply on hand, and most of them stated that they had no assurance that their orders would be filled at any time in the near future. Out of possibly ten grocers who were interviewed this afternoon, but one gave any assurance that he would be able to sell sugar tomorrow. He said he had received a telegram that a small shipment would be made.

The sugar shortage strikes hard at this time of the year when local people are canning and preserving fruit. Unless relief is furnished immediately, the shortage means that many people will lose a part of their winter's supply of fruit, besides the inconvenience of being without this essential and necessary commodity for the time being.

Although it was reported on the streets that some of the dealers were holding large sugar supplies for higher prices, an inquiry resulted in a strenuous denial. The dealers declared that they buy sugar in such small quantities that they would not be justified in holding it. They throw the responsibilities on the refiners and some of them declared they were positive that there was an adequate supply in storage in the larger centers, but that the owners would not release it until they received their own price. It was rumored in Indianapolis several days ago that there might be a sugar shortage and that the price would likely jump to eighteen or even twenty cents a pound. The refiners, it is charged, are "bucking" the government, if the latter is making any opposition at all, in hope that the price will be forced upwards.

Although the shortage has been threatened for some time, assurance was given by the sugar refiners that it was due to congested transportation facilities and that as soon as the government would relinquish the necessary freight cars adequate shipments could be made to all parts of the country. Consumers who were able to do so purchased heavily when the shortage was first predicted, but the great majority of people buy sugar as they need it and as a result are with very limited supplies.

NOTICE

UNUSUAL STOCK ISSUE
By

Doll-Van Film Corporation

Going Concern Offers $100,000.00 Seven Per Cent.
Cumulative Preferred to Share Earnings with Common

Everyone is familiar with the miraculous growth of the motion picture industry and the fortunes it has made in the last few years. Get in on the "ground floor."

The Doll-Van Film Corporation started in business in 1917, capitalized at $50,000. The stock was subscribed by prominent Indianapolis business men. Operations were confined largely to Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky, but we were rapidly forced to expand in answer to an ever increasing demand. Our capitalization and money invested rapidly increased to $150,000. In the spring of 1918 we took on D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World," scoring a wonderful success in Indiana and Kentucky, for which states we hold the rights.

Our rapid growth has forced us to place an organization in Chicago (207 S. Wabash Ave.) to facilitate our distribution through Southern Wisconsin, Northern Illinois and Northern Indiana. This is in addition to our large organization with headquarters at 1926 Merchants Bank Building, Indianapolis, and our exchange and shipping department in the same city.

POLICY OF EXPANSION

Realizing the almost unlimited future of the business, we have adopted the following plans of expansion:

Taking on more territory as rapidly as possible; Ohio, Michigan and Missouri are tempting fields.

OUR LIBERAL OFFER.

In line with our policy of expansion, we now offer $100,000.00 (par value) seven per cent. cumulative preferred stock at $100.00 per share, paying quarterly dividends at 1 1/2 per cent.

In addition, this stock carries the valuable privilege of participating pro rata with the common stock in any dividends declared after the common stock has been given a dividend of seven per cent.

This preferred stock thus becomes an absolute mortgage on the assets of the company with the great advantage of sharing with the common stock in the profits of the corporation. Furthermore, it is more desirable than the common in that the dividends on the preferred are cumulative.

Preferred stock may be retired upon thirty days' notice to the stockholders of record, on or after July 1, 1921, at 105 per cent. of par plus all arrearages and accrued interest, and must be retired at par June 1, 1923.

AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

An understanding of our method of operating gives some conception of the money making possibilities. We deal only in first class pictures—the feature films which are so eagerly sought after by public and theatre owners. We buy the rights to exhibit these films in our territory.

We then distribute this film to the motion picture houses and theatres—some 2,000 in our present territory. Our profit is the margin between the original cost of the picture and the rental obtained from the theatre managers.

It usually takes from two to four years to exhaust the money making possibilities of a picture. In some cases they return a handsome profit even after that.

OUR ORGANIZATION

The president and manager of the Doll-Van Film Corporation is Mr. Henry Dollman, a well known and highly successful business man of Indianapolis.

INVESTIGATE THIS NOW

We welcome any investigation of our company—its personnel, its methods or its future possibilities. We will gladly supply any information to interested investors.

Opportunities for safe investment with big profits, such as this, do not come often. Don't let this pass. Write today, or if you prefer to investigate independently, do so.

Ask any responsible Manager about us.

TRUANT OFFICER WILL STRICTLY ENFORCE LAW

S. B. Moore Calls Attention to New Truancy Laws—Issues Warning to Public.

S. B. Moore, county truant officer, in a communication to this office states that he has resolved to enforce the new truancy laws strictly and desires that the public know that any persons violating same will be prosecuted in accordance with the law. Only one notice will be given parents, either in person or by mail, the truant officer announces and if delinquent children are not in school within five days following the law requires that the truant officer file proceedings against the parents.

It is pointed out that if a child is away from school on account of illness it is the duty of the parents to see that the teacher is notified and anyone failing to do so is liable to prosecution.

The state law provides that where parents are unable to furnish their children with proper clothing and books to keep them in school they must notify the school board or township trustee and prove to them that they are not able to support their children properly and they will be provided. Ignorance of the truancy laws will not excuse anyone, the truant officer announces, and every school patron is urged to see that their children attend school regularly during the coming school term to prevent trouble. Don't wait until the truant officer comes for it is not his place to see that the children have clothes and books, Mr. Moore says.

Mr. Moore, the truant officer, in closing his communication to this office says "Remember! This is one year that the truancy laws will be enforced."

RENEWED TESTIMONY

No one in Seymour who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Seymour man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Seymour resident can doubt.

Louis Scheurich, 317 W. Oak St., says: "I suffered from pain across the small of my back, accompanied by weakness, which affected me so badly I could hardly get about. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did. They cured the attack."

MORE THAN FIVE YEARS LATER, Mr. Scheurich said: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney complaint. I take a box of Doan's occasionally, however and they keep my kidneys in good condition."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Scheurich had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

How History is Recorded.

While the war in Europe has destroyed cities, archeologists in India have been excavating a town that was probably old in the time of the Kushan king, Kadhphises II, who flourished about A. D. 85 to 120. The town thus revealed by the excavators was built by the Asiatic Greeks who invaded and conquered the Punjab, and the walls and rooms of the king's palace suggest that the architects derived their real ideas from the royal dwellings of Mesopotamia and Assyria. Beyond the palace still remain the ruins of houses outlining a street; and one odd thing about these old buildings is that they have no doors, which leads to the assumption that they were once basements and that those who used them entered from above by stairs or ladders. One of the buildings excavated is held to have been built by the Emperor Asoka, who made Buddhism the state religion of India. The excavations have been conducted by the archeological department of India established when Lord Curzon was viceroy.

HUN PRISONERS BROUGHT TO AMERICA

Alfred Scholz (left) and Alwin Grothe, first German prisoners to arrive in this country. They were turned over to the director of military intelligence. Great mystery surrounds these men, and why they were brought here is unknown. Scholz is an infantryman, who was captured at St. Mihiel September 2, 1918, while Grothe was shot down from the skies in the Argonne in October.

HOW HERO OF FICTION HAS ALTERED WITH CHANGES OF YEARS.

—The hero of fiction is undergoing a metamorphosis. That conviction even the most cursory cannot escape. It has been evident for a long time that the heroine is not what she once was, but the estate of man has not changed so much as that of woman in the days since "mid-Victorian" became anathema to the advanced character of the advanced thinkers. Thus the revolution in the character of the hero has not thrust itself on public attention until more lately. The change, it must be regretfully said, is not for the better, says a writer in the Los Angeles Express. To speak unreservedly, the novel hero seems to be going to the dogs.

In the old-fashioned sublimely ignorant and unsophisticated literary epoch, known as Victorian, and for some time thereafter, the hero of the popular novel was often a gentleman, a man of decent impulses and fairly decent life. There may be an occasional figure of that sort in the novels currently crowding one another off the presses, but they are hard to find. The usual hero of these modern days was the villain of the old type of novel, the dishonorable, thoroughly selfish and quite wicked creature who caused all the heroine's troubles. Now that sort is crowned with the hero's laurels. You are expected to like, admire and be interested in a man that a former ignominious epoch would have found immoral and odious.

Three novels fresh from the press have as heroes men who by the old-fashioned standard would be regarded as pretty low specimens of the genus homo. All are selfish, conceited, snobbish, without morals where women are concerned, in short thorough-going blackguards. And they are typical. They want to "live," and that to them involves the breaking of the ordinary canons of society. Gone are the days of such uninteresting decent heroes as Henry Esmond, David Copperfield and John Halifax.

Rev. L. T. Freeland left this morning for Otisco.

Tom Whitson transacted business in Crothersville today.

How Stainless Steel Came About.

It was an accident which led to the invention of rustless steel.

A certain Sheffield expert was experimenting to find a means of preventing erosion—or wearing away—in gun tubes.

After some experiments he noticed that certain pieces of steel had not suffered from corrosive influences under conditions which would have rusted ordinary steel. He followed up this clue, and stainless steel was thus evolved.

This new metal, with a bright surface, is able to resist the corroding effect of air, water, and acids without staining. It was immediately commandeered by the British government for use in airplane construction and for purposes where strength and durability, combined with rust-resisting qualities, were invaluable.

MOTHERS TO BE

Should Read Mrs. Monahan's Letter Published by Her Permission.

Mitchell, Ind.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me so much during the time I was looking forward to the coming of my little one that I am recommending it to other expectant mothers. Before taking it, sometimes I suffered with neuralgia so badly that I thought I could not live, but after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was entirely relieved of neuralgia, I had gained in strength and was able to go around and do all my housework. My baby when seven months old weighed 19 pounds and I feel better than I have for a long time. I never had any medicine do me so much good."—Mrs. PEARL MONYHAN, Mitchell, Ind.

Good health during maternity is a most important factor to both mother and child, and many letters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., telling of health restored during this trying period by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Big Lot of Hay Fever Jokes

But Kentucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINETY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city.

"But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Arcine and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and snuff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear and in cases where it does show up is very mild and does not annoy."

"The Better Class of Pharmacists" who dispense Mentholized Arcine say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin.

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint.

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

If Your Nerves Are Shaky Because of
Over-Indulgence in Tobacco or Alcohol or by Excess of Any Kind,
Bio-Feren Is What You Need
Right Away.

Don't grow old before your time, don't let nervousness wreck your happiness or chances in life. The man with strong, steady nerves is full of vigor, energy, ambition and confidence.

You can have nerves of steel, firm step, new courage and keep mind by putting your blood and nerves in first-class shape with mighty Bio-Feren, a new discovery, inexpensive and efficient.

Men and women who get up so tired in the morning that they have to drag themselves to their daily labor will in just a few days arise with clear mind, definite purpose and loads of ambition. All you have to do is to take two Bio-Feren tablets after each meal and one at bedtime—7 a day for 7 days—then reduce to one after each meal until all are gone.

Then if your energy and endurance haven't doubled, if your mind isn't keener and eyes brighter, if you don't feel twice as ambitious as before, any druggist anywhere will return the purchase price—gladly and freely.

Bio-Feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anaemic men and women ever offered and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

The Magnificent Ambersons

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

COPYRIGHT BY DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY

Amberson joined him lustily, and sang on when Morgan stopped. His nephew, behind, was gloomy. He had overheard his mother's conversation with the inventor; it seemed curious to him that this Morgan, of whom he had never heard until last night, should be using the name "Isabel" so easily; and George felt that it was not just the thing for his mother to call Morgan "Eugene;" the resentment of the previous night came upon George again. Meanwhile his mother and Morgan continued their talk; but he could no longer hear what they said; the noise of the car and his uncle's sonful mood prevented. He marked how animated Isabel seemed; it was not strange to see his mother so gay, but it was strange that a man not of the family should be the cause of her gaiety. And George sat frowning.

Lucy turned to him. "You tried to swing underneath me and break the fall for me when we went over," she said. "I knew you were doing that, and—it was nice of you."

"Wasn't any fall to speak of," he returned brusquely. "Couldn't have hurt either of us."

"Still it was friendly of you—and awfully quick, too. I'll not—I'll not forget it!"

Her voice had a sound of genuineness, very pleasant, and George began to forget his annoyance with her father. This annoyance of his had not been alleviated by the circumstance that neither of the seats of the old sewing machine was designed for three people, but when his neighbor spoke thus gratefully he no longer minded the crowding—in fact, it pleased him so much that he began to wish the old sewing machine would go even slower. George presently addressed Lucy hurriedly, almost tremulously, speaking close to her ear:

"I forgot to tell you something: you're pretty nice! I thought so the first second I saw you last night. I'll come for you tonight and take you to the Assembly at the Amberson hotel. You're going, aren't you?"

"Yes, but I'm going with papa and the Sharons. I'll see you there."

"Well, we'll dance the cotillion together, anyhow."

"I'm afraid not. I promised Mr. Kinney."

"What!" George's tone was shocked, as at incredible news. "Well, you could break that engagement, I guess, if you wanted to! Girls always can get out of things when they want to. Won't you?"

"I don't think so."

"Why not?"

"Because I promised him. Several days ago."

"See here!" said the stricken George. "If you're going to decline to dance that cotillion with me simply because you've promised a—a—a miserable red-headed outsider like Fred Kinney, why we might as well quit!"

"Quit what?"

"You know perfectly well what I mean," he said huskily.

"I don't."

"Well, you ought to!"

George, thoroughly hurt, and not a little embittered, expressed himself in a short outburst of laughter: "Well, I ought to have seen it!"

"Seen what?"

"That you might turn out to be a girl who'd like a fellow of the red-headed Kinney sort. I ought to have seen it from the first!"

Lucy bore her disgrace lightly. "Oh, dancing a cotillion with a person doesn't mean that you like him—but I don't see anything in particular the matter with Mr. Kinney. What is?"

"I prefer not to discuss it," said George curtly. "He's an enemy of mine."

"Why?"

"I prefer not to discuss it."

"Well, but—"

"I prefer not to discuss it!"

"Very well." She began to hum the air of the song which Mr. George Amberson was now discoursing, "O moon of my delight that knows no wane"—and there was no further conversation on the back seat.

The contrivance stopped with a heart-shaking jerk before Isabel's house. The gentlemen jumped down, helping Isabel and Fanny to descend; there were friendly leavetakings—and one that was not precisely friendly.

"It's 'au revoir' till tonight, isn't it?" Lucy asked, laughing.

"Good afternoon!" said George, and he did not wait, as his relatives did, to see the old sewing machine start briskly down the street, toward the Sharons'; its lighter load consisting now of only Mr. Morgan and his daughter. George went into the house at once.

He found his father reading the evening paper in the library. "Where are your mother and your Aunt Fanny?" Mr. Minafer inquired, not looking up.

"They're coming," said his son; and, casting himself heavily into a chair, stared at the fire.

His prediction was verified a few moments later; the two ladies came in cheerfully, unfastening their fur cloaks. "It's all right, Georgie," said Isabel. "Your Uncle George called to see that Pendergast got home safely. Put your shoes close to the fire, dear, or else go and change them."

"Look here," said George abruptly. "How about this man Morgan and his old sewing machine? Doesn't he want to get grandfather to put money into it? Isn't he trying to work Uncle George for that? Isn't that what he's up to?"

It was Miss Fanny who responded. "You little silly!" she cried, with surprising sharpness. "What on earth are you talking about? Eugene Morgan's perfectly able to finance his own inventions these days."

"He strikes me as that sort of

"We Won't Urge You If You'd Really Rather Not."

"Isn't he, father?"

Minafer set down his paper for the moment. "He was a fairly wild young fellow twenty years ago," he said, glancing at his wife absently. "He was like you in one thing, Georgie: he spent too much money—only he didn't have any mother to get money out of a grandfather for him, so he was usually in debt. But I believe I've heard he's done fairly well of late years. No, I can't say I think he's a swindler, and I doubt if he needs anybody else's money to back his horseless carriage."

"Well, what's he brought the old thing here for, then? People that own elephants don't take their elephants around with 'em when they go visiting. What's he got it here for?"

"I'm sure I don't know," said Mr. Minafer, resuming his paper. "You might ask him."

Isabel laughed and patted her husband's shoulder again. "Aren't you going to dress? Aren't we all going to the dance?"

He groaned faintly. "Aren't your brother and Georgie escorts enough for you and Fanny?"

"Wouldn't you enjoy it at all?"

"You know I don't."

Isabel let her hand remain upon his shoulder a moment longer; she stood behind him, looking into the fire, George, watching her broodingly, thought there was more color in her face than the reflection of the flames accounted for. "Well, then," she said indulgently, "stay at home and be happy. We won't urge you if you'd really rather not."

"I really wouldn't," he said contentedly.

Half an hour later George was passing through the upper hall, in a bathrobe stage of preparation for the evening's gaieties, when he encountered his Aunt Fanny. He stopped her. "Look here!" he said.

"What in the world is the matter with you?" she demanded, regarding him with little amiability. "You look as if you were rehearsing for a villain in a play."

His expression gave no sign of yielding to the request; on the contrary, its somberness deepened. "I suppose you don't know why father doesn't want to go tonight," he said solemnly.

"He never wants to go anywhere that I ever heard of," said Fanny. "What is the matter with you?"

"He doesn't want to go because he doesn't like this man Morgan. Look here, what makes you and—and everybody so excited over him?"

"Excited!" she jeered. "Can't people be glad to see an old friend without silly children like you having to make a to-do about it? I've just been in your mother's room suggesting that she might give a little dinner for them—"

"For who?"

"For whom, Georgie! For Mr. Morgan and his daughter."

"Look here!" George said quickly. "Don't do that! Mother mustn't do that. It wouldn't look well."

"Wouldn't look well!" Fanny mocked him; and her suppressed vehemence betrayed a surprising acerbity. "See here, Georgie Minafer, I suggest that you just march straight on into your room and finish your dressing! Sometimes you say things that show you have a pretty mean little mind!"

George was so astounded by this outburst that his indignation was delayed by his curiosity. "Why, what upsets you this way?" he inquired.

"I know what you mean," she said, her voice still lowered, but not decreasing in sharpness. "You're trying to insinuate that I'd get your mother to invite Eugene Morgan here on my account because he's a widower!"

"I am?" George gasped, nonplused.

"I'm trying to insinuate that you're setting your cap at him and getting mother to help you? Is that what you mean?"

Beyond a doubt that was what Miss Fanny meant. She gave him a white-hot look. "You attend to your own affairs!" she whispered fiercely, and swept away.

George, dumfounded, returned to his room for meditation.

He had lived for years in the same house with his Aunt Fanny, and it now appeared that during all those years he had been thus intimately associating with a total stranger. Never before had he met the passionate lady with whom he had just held a conversation in the hall. So she wanted to get married! And wanted George's mother to help her with this horseless-carriage widower!

"Well, I will be shot!" he muttered aloud. "I well—I certainly will be shot." And he began to laugh.

"Lord 'lmighty!"

But presently, at the thought of the horseless-carriage widower's daughter, his grimace returned, and he resolved upon a line of conduct for the evening. He would nod to her carelessly when he first saw her; and after that he would notice her no more; he would not dance with her; he would not favor her in the cotillion—he would not go near her!

... He descended to dinner upon the third urgent summons of the colored butler, having spent two hours dressing—and rehearsing.

LABRADOR COAST IS SWEEPED BY DEATH

Smallpox and Spanish Influenza Play Havoc With Eskimos.

St. John's, N. F.—Spanish "flu," smallpox and measles wiped out more than one-third of the Eskimo population of Labrador during the months of November and December of last year. The Rev. W. W. Perrett of the Moravian mission at Hopedale, where he has spent 27 years, reached the Newfoundland shores a few days ago. He told an almost unbelievable story of the sufferings of the Eskimos of northern Labrador.

Shortly after the mission ship Harmony had left the coast at the beginning of November "flu" broke out at Hebron and spread rapidly among the inhabitants. That the disease was contagious was unknown to the Eskimo, who were living in small huts, and whole families were affected and died off. Bishop Martin and those at the mission did what was possible under the circumstances, but they, too, were stricken, and when the epidemic had passed its course only eight children, five women and one man of the native population of 100 were living.

Mad Dogs Eat Human Flesh.

At the outbreak, the dead were buried almost as soon as they passed away, but when the entire settlement became ill, the victims were left where they died, those who had recovered in the meantime being too weak to lay them under the ground. Households who had succumbed one by one were left unburied, and the dogs, who were unable to procure food because the hunters had been all ill, became mad and entered the cabins, consuming the flesh from the bodies of the dead.

When it became known that the epidemic was raging, some outside assistance arrived, and an effort was made to give the dead Christian burial. The dogs, however, after consuming the human flesh, became wild, and it was impossible to undertake putting the corpses in the frozen ground. The next best thing was to bury the corpses at sea. Before even this could be attempted the few remaining at Hebron were compelled to shoot the dogs, as even the living were not safe from them.

While this horror of death and suffering was going on at Hebron, a like epidemic was raging at Okak. The Eskimos, as in Hebron, huddled together in their small huts, quickly became affected, until the whole population was either stricken or dead. The daily death rate was appalling, whole families dying within a few hours. The mission all the while was unceasing in its work for the afflicted, but they also fell victims to the disease, which meant that the Eskimos were left helpless. When the new year dawned only a few emaciated Eskimos were found to be alive.

Mode of Living Is Fatal.

Mr. Perrett said that when the Eskimos were stricken, their mode of living and environment was against their surviving. As soon as the illness fell upon them they were obliged to take shelter in the small, stuffy huts, where there was neither fresh air nor sunshine, and here they remained until they died. They were also without seal meat and fats, which are necessary for sustenance in cold climes, having been overtaken by the epidemic just as the hunting season opened, and, their constitutions thus weakened, they became easy prey to the scourge. Many who had recovered from their illness died later for want of nourishment.

NO "MOVIE" OF EX-KAISER

Maximilian Harden Says He Declined a Large Fee for Film Play.

Berlin.—Announcement is made by Maximilian Harden, German editor, that he declined a handsome fee and large royalties offered him for a motion picture play dealing with the career of the former German emperor. Harden said he had no intention of entering the "movie" field.

Family Fetish.

In the northern territory of the Gold Coast every family has its own "fetish," usually a conical heap of clay with a small pot sunk in its apex. It is consulted on all matters relating to the welfare of the family. Sacrifices are made to it by killing fowls over it and allowing their blood to run into the pot.

When the Farmer Has to Plow

THERE comes a time on every farm when work must be done at once if it is to be done at all. It may be plowing, cultivating, harvesting, or housing of the crops. When conditions are right the work must be started and pushed with all possible speed if the farm is to pay a maximum return that season.

Under such conditions the man on the job has no time to go to town, even to get necessary supplies, and no one on the place can be spared for that purpose.

Some times it is necessary to send in for food, seed, or machinery, but for his requirements of petroleum products, the farmer knows that he will be supplied by the dark, green tank wagon of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) which calls at his home as regularly, though not as often, as does the man who brings his mail.

He has learned that he can depend upon this delivery service, and that the Standard Oil man will deliver his kerosene, gasoline and lubricating oil not only to his door, but, if there be, to the tractor in the field—there are 150,000 tractors in the Middle West.

This is the reason for the harmonious, close, friendly relations which always has existed between the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and the farmers of the Middle West. Also this is another reason why the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) takes pride in its position as a public servant, doing an exacting job as well as it knows how, to the distinct advantage of the man who raises the crops, and the millions who eat them.

are so powerful that they have secured a classification of their own for some shipments. Freight, he explained, is sent according to classifications. The classifications are different in Indiana and Illinois. For instance a certain commodity is classified in the third class in Illinois and in the second class in Indiana. The second class rate is higher than the third class. In addition to this discrimination, he said, the rates for the same classes are lower in Illinois than in Indiana so that Hoosier shippers pay higher freight rates in two different ways. The situation reached the point where the rates were interfering with business life in this state. He explained that concrete highway construction in Indiana cost about $1,000 more a mile than the same roads would cost in Illinois because of the discriminatory rates on gravel and concrete in favor of Illinois.

He gave several illustrations. At Sullivan, he said, there is a horse buyer who ships to St. Louis and the freight on a carload from Sullivan to St. Louis is about $138. The buyer can drive his horses to a little town in Illinois, fifteen miles away, and ship the same horses for about $39 a car. Many shippers in Indiana, he said, were sending their goods to Illinois, and reshipping them from points in that state because of the difference in freight rates. As a whole the rates in Indiana, he declared are about thirty percent. more than in Illinois.

Whenever the railroad administration increases rates, Mr. Quarles declared, they are boosted on percentage basis. Thus an increase of twenty-five percent. means a boost of twenty-five percent. of $1 in Indiana, while it is only twenty-five percent. of seventy cents in Illinois. Such increases under the present schedules only serve to place a greater burden on Indiana people.

Mr. Quarles made an interesting talk and explained what the state chamber of commerce is doing. He said that the cost of the rate investigation has been apportioned among the several counties of the state on the basis of the fourth Liberty Loan and that Jackson county's part is $350. This money may be raised by contribution, or if new members to the state Chamber are secured their dues will apply to the county's quota.

On motion of T. A. Mott and L. C. Griffiths, the Seymour chamber of commerce voted to appoint a committee of three to determine the method to pay Jackson county's part of the expense. The Chamber also voted to affiliate with the State Chamber of commerce.

Save the Ten Cents.

Beginning June 10, a minimum price of fifteen cents for cash, and an additional ten cents when charged, will be made on all classified locals, cards of thanks, or other short locals. If the local is ordered by telephone the money may be sent to the office the same day, before it is charged on our books, and the extra charge of ten cents will not be made.

We find the cost of charging these small items, making out bills and collecting them often amounts to more than the local itself. The extra ten cents that will be charged will partly compensate the office for this extra work and expense. But you can save it by paying cash when the local is ordered.

Exception will be made in the case of business firms with whom we have regular monthly accounts.
